

Esperanza visited Fairy Land often, but she also traveled the world spending time with humans and helping them with some of their most difficult struggles. Her name meant hope in Spanish and it fit her perfectly since she was the fairy of hope and faith. She had just arrived at her new home a few days earlier and had chosen to live in the children's playhouse in the yard. It was plenty big for her and it had a pink roof. That was her favorite color.

